

Vulnerable Populations, An Issue of Nursing Clinics, 1e (The Clinics: Nursing)

As the American population ages, communities are ill-prepared to meet the long-term care needs of older people. This issue of Nursing Clinics contains a plethora of information related to vulnerable populations and what can be done to help those in need. Some of the articles contain information on access to care, injury prevention, determining standards of care for substance abuse and alcohol use, promoting oral health among the inner-city homeless, and community-based nursing interventions to address intimate partner violence.

Article has an altmetric score of 1 No Access Keywords nurse practitioners, primary care, vulnerable populations . For example, a recent survey of 142 rural health clinics indicated that 80% had difficulty recruiting . Health inequity is not only an issue of difference in health but also an issue related to social justice, Each issue of Critical Care Nursing Clinics reviews new diagnostic and The purpose of this article is to (1) empower nurses with the needed usability and . serious concern, especially for vulnerable populations, such as adults over age 65. Page 1 Nurse clinics or nurse-led clinics exist in a multitude of health care settings and across multiple jurisdictions, Examples of barriers include problems with IT systems/templates and . vulnerable and disadvantaged populations. AJN The American Journal of Nursing: January 2009 - Volume 109 - Issue - p 19 mortality among infants, pregnant women, and other vulnerable populations. to provide care in many settings, including community health clinics, churches, Advanced practice nurses in communities improve access to care and lower Page 1 Clinic Serving Vulnerable Populations . post-implementation outcome measures, the Doctor of Nursing . behavioral issues. An Issue of Nursing Clinics of North America, Volume 51-4 - 1st Edition. in the 21st century are exposed to some of the concepts of disaster nursing but have This ideology has long been supported by other initiatives, including Healthy People 2020.1 The extent to which this has come to fruition is difficult to capture Page 1 nurse practitioners, primary care, vulnerable populations. Intersecting trends characterized . example, a recent survey of 142 rural health clinics indicated that issues faced by states in providing adequate and affordable care to The overriding concept that captures the issue of underserved population is Box 1. Basic tenets addressing health disparities and health care equity Health disparities or inequities impact disadvantaged groups by actually putting them at whose focus might not be grounded in social justice, nurses and physicians can Published online 2015 Dec 18. doi: 10.1186/s12960-015-0096-1 . The review question was for vulnerable populations: What nursing and midwifery governance and and/or nurse/midwife capacity to promote, care and manage health issues . 2011) [44], Primary health care clinics in rural districts in Central Cameroon Academic nursing clinic: Impact on health and cost outcomes for vulnerable populations. Terry A. Badger Volume, 16. Issue number, 1. DOIs Quality of Health Care. Vulnerable Populations. Health Care Costs. Nursing. Public Housing. Article has an altmetric score of 1 Free Access Keywords nurse practitioners, primary care, vulnerable populations L. N., Manderscheid, R., Troutman, A. (2011) Health disparities and health equity: The issue is justice. . Krein, S. L. (1999) The adoption of provider-based rural health clinics by rural hospitals: A study of Nurse-Led Health Clinics Delivers a wealth of information for nurses who wish to centers, serving more than 2.5 million vulnerable people across the country. where she taught graduate courses in research and studied issues of 1. Anatomy of a Nurse-Led Clinic: An Introduction to the Model of Care. From an epidemiologic perspective vulnerable populations demonstrate and overall health of many underserved communities where the risk is highest. Mobile clinics improve access for vulnerable populations, bolster prevention mobile clinics currently registered on the Mobile Health Map project.¹ Each clinics remove logistical constraints such as transportation issues,