In a season of time when grandparents are becoming caregivers to their grandchildren more and more, Author Phyllis Clemmons is no exception to this assigned position. She shares with you some of her heartfelt memories with her granddaughter, Asiah that have been an inspiration to her. Phyllis hopes you too will be inspired by the common bond she shares with grandparents who have an opportunity to bless the lives of their own grandchildren. Such blessings are not a burden you owe, but a seed you are appointed to sow into the foundation of their lives. Seeds that will help to mold them into future positive leaders who will one day frame a picture of a nation, restored far beyond its former glory.
