

Growing Up Green

A biographical journal of poetry, Growing Up Green reveals the beauty of a quarter of a century of challenges met and joys found. Sweet pictures of natural beauty and insights into human nature are interspersed throughout light-filled responses to seemingly dark obstacles. The poetry begins hungry and passes through the events of the poet's life, showing her struggles, comforts, and joys. The poet has green (living) roots and the life in her deepens, develops and grows as she passes through the various challenges that she faces. Her relationship with God becomes stronger and more joyful, sometimes flashing bright glimpses of glory. These poems bring comfort and hope to those who read them.
