

This volume offers some of the most wonderful drawings to come out of Florence, Umbria, and Rome under the influence and genius of Raphael. With more than fifty drawings, it represents one of the most dazzling collections of drawings in the world. Over more than a century, in red and black chalk, silverpoint, and ink, in portraits, studies, and preliminary sketches, one can follow the influences, interdependence of the artists, and their aesthetic choices that are reworked, corrected, exchanged, shared, modified, and sometimes magnified. Many different expressions of individuality are at the heart of a network that brought them together and enriched them all.
