

The Dragon Horn

There wasn't anything special about Ivan. He didn't train to be a knight, learn spells or know anything about the ancient art of healing. He took care of the dogs and slept in the kennels. Then a knight came to Belgorod Holding, a warrior that none dared face. The knight had hidden magic, brutal henchmen and the secret aid of a witch. With a letter from the king, he also had the right to hire farmers to help him search the forest for old treasure. That treasure was a scourge and a plague to the world. In it laid one of the Dark Gods and several of the vilest weapons ever forged. Ivan wasn't anything special, but he had his dogs and he had his heart, and he would do everything he could to save his family and friends from the ancient Lord of Bats.

So I was thinking about how Euron is going after Dany to bind her dragons to his will with the horn. The horn burns whoever blows it, which The Horn of Winter (a.k.a. The Horn of Joramun) . talk about it, and at one point in A Dance With Dragons, Melisandre thinks to herself: Probably not. The whole idea of the dragon horns has not been explored well, apart from vague historical references. In A Dance with Dragons, we get this Unlike show-Daenerys, Valyrians are not fireproof so the only beings on planetos that could sound such a horn are dragons.
