

Writing with Intent: Essays, Reviews, Personal Prose: 1983-2005

From one of the worlds most passionately engaged and acclaimed literary citizens comes Writing with Intent, the largest collection to date of Margaret Atwoods nonfiction, ranging from 1983 to 2005. Composed of autobiographical essays, cultural commentary, book reviews, and introductory pieces to great works of literature, this is the award-winning authors first book-length nonfiction publication in twenty years. Arranged chronologically, these writings display the development of Atwoods worldview as the world around her changes. Included are the Booker Prizewinning authors reviews of books by John Updike, Italo Calvino, Toni Morrison, and others, as well as essays in which she remembers herself reading Virginia Woolfs To the Lighthouse at age nineteen, and discusses the influence of George Orwells 1984 on the writing of The Handmaids Tale. Atwoods New York Times Book Review piece that helped make Orhan Pamuks Snow a bestseller can be found here, as well as a look back on a family trip to Afghanistan just before the Soviet invasion, and her Letter to America, written after September 11, 2001. The insightful and memorable pieces in this book serve as a testament to Atwoods career, reminding readers why she is one of the most esteemed writers of our time.
